Title of Article: Employer Satisfaction Survey of University of Botswana Graduates.

Authors: Alao, A. A., Mabote, M.M., Sento-Pelaelo, O.T. Kgosidintsi, A.D. et.al.

Outlet: International Journal of Contemporary Issues in Education and Psychology, Vol. 1 No. 3, pp.17-34

Date of Publication: 2009

Abstract:

The study assessed the expectations and satisfaction levels of employers with the quality of University of Botswana Graduates and the employability skills required by employers. The study revealed that the employers were generally satisfied with University of Botswana graduates and will continue to recruit graduates form this institution. The employers noted that the graduates were sufficiently prepared for employment. The employers found communication, computer, interpersonal, critical thinking, problem solving, flexibility, adaptability, planning, organizational, leadership, managerial, analytical and research skills very important for prospective employees.