
Authors: Alao, A.A.

Date of Publication: 1989

Abstract:

The publication asserts the need to be aware of areas in which parents can improve the home environment. The behavioural model was discussed as an approach that parents could easily use at home to deal with inappropriate behavior. The behavioural approaches discussed include classical conditioning techniques such as the use of noxious stimulation, relaxation and desensitization and implosive therapy were discussed. The use of operant conditioning techniques in the home was also explored.