Title of Article: Ethnicization of Violent Conflict in Jos?

Author(s): Joshua, Segun and Jegede, Ajibade,

Outlet: Global Journal of Human Social Science (Political Science) 13 (7) version 1.0. 50-56.

Date: 2013

Abstract: For over a decade now, violent conflict has been a recurring decimal in Plateau State, most especially in Jos the state capital. However, some commentators have examined the simmering conflicts in Jos by adopting mono-causal perspective. Anchored on eclectic model of conflict analysis and with heavy reliance on secondary data, this study examined violent conflict in Jos. The study found that conflicts in Jos and elsewhere are caused by confluence of factors and as such solutions to conflict should embrace the various manifestations of conflict so as to proffer workable solutions.