1.1. ENG416 Modern Literary Theories (2 Units)

This is a study of critical concepts and approaches in literary theory and criticism. It familiarizes students with schools of modern literary theories like Historical criticism, Sociological and Psychological criticisms, Mythic and Archetypal criticisms, Formalism and Practical Criticisms, Marxist Criticism, Structuralism, Deconstruction, Feminist and Gender criticisms, New Historicism and Cultural Materialism, Postcolonial criticism, etc. The relationships between these theories and their application in literary studies will be explored to equip the students to apply them in their research studies.
