HMD211 Culture and Human Development I (1 Unit)

Department of Languages

Covenant University
1. HMD211
1.1. HMD211 Culture and Human Development I (1 Unit)

This course shall examine the relationship between culture and development. It will involve the analytical survey of the different meanings of culture and development. The course shall attempt to provide answers to the questions: Is development culture-neutral? Is the concept of human development consistent with cultural progress? The course will in addition examine the components and theories of culture as they affect human development.