HMD321 Communication and Human Development II (1 Unit)

Department of Languages

Covenant University
1. HMD321
1.1. HMD321 Communication and Human Development II (1 Unit)

This course is a continuation of HMD311. It is aimed at strengthening students' understanding of both conceptual and practical aspects of communication and human development. Issues to be treated are: the dialectics of communication in different cultural contexts and their implications for human development; communication models for enhancing human development; information technology and its impacts on human development and communication codes and languages.